FATHER KEN'S CORNER

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the Parish of the Good Shepherd,

Some things in life can be hidden and obvious at the same time. I think you've heard of "something being hidden in plain sight", so what I mean is that in many aspects of life, we can know something without really being conscious of it. We know our hearts are constantly beating, yet only at specific moments are we aware of this. It's in this realm of thought that we can take many aspects of life for granted which requires greater reflection. While the summer season with the change of routine isn't really conducive to great philosophical thought – especially amidst all the recent heat and humidity - perhaps we all can allow the following thoughts to trickle into and tickle our consciousness.

It seems obvious to say, but each of us has a body. This body might be large or small and a little bigger or smaller than we may wish, but this physical entity is OUR BODY, it is how the world sees us and we are obliged to take care of it. It is a gift from God and formed in that particular way for a reason. We may not like the form we possess OR we may love our physical attributes, but it's important to realize that we literally cannot exist on this earth without our bodies. Many thousands of people have physical limitations and deformities which modern science and technology can strengthen and aid and yet despite any type of handicap, who we are is not just a body, but mind and spirit as well.

Yet these lumps of flesh are the physical tether to our immortal souls. It is good that St. Paul reminds us that through our baptism our bodies become temples of the Holy Spirit in a similar way yet just as in an important way that the tabernacle in the sanctuary holds the Holy Eucharist. We are both physical and spiritual beings. We are body, mind and spirit, and each depends very much on the other. Our brains depend on our bodies to carry out its commands and the body and mind depend ultimately on the soul for the very gift of life. Paradoxically, when we're young, we may not appreciate the wonders of the human body and as we grow older that appreciation should grow immensely as most of us no longer can do what we once did with ease or without great thought. Put all that on hold for a moment.

Another obvious, but seemingly forgotten thought is that every day is a lesson in life, a lesson in living, a lesson in loving. Some of the lessons we learn are harsh, some of those lessons we may think irrelevant. There are some lessons which we will forget and need to learn over and over again, incorporating them into the fabric of our lives. Experience can make some of those life lessons easier to learn, but as the saying goes, we never stop learning. Again, it's said that failure is a great teacher; our mistakes shouldn't be seen as failures IF we learn from them.

That leads us up to connecting the lessons of life to what I've written above, the immortal soul that each body holds. We learn from the Book of Genesis that each of us is made in the image and likeness of God. We also learn from the gospels that God came to live among us in a body like we have. Those two realities are so important for us to keep together. First, because our God has experienced in the body all the aspects of life we've gone through (except sin) and, second, we are called while still in the body, to live in the image and likeness of God – WHO IS LOVE.

We may link the human form of a head, torso, arms and legs to be that image of God in whom we're created. But, rather, the correct thought is that Jesus is born in human form to teach us that the image of God we need to strive for isn't physical, but spiritual – to become the visible image of God (like Jesus was) on earth through our acts of love. This in turn gives greater emphasis and meaning to the "Great Commandment". And isn't this in essence what the Incarnation is all about? God becoming Man so that man might become One in God; a beautiful tenant of our faith both obvious and hidden.

Matthew 13:24-43

“The reign of God may be likened to one who sowed good seed...”

The reign of God is like a mustard seed...

The reign of God is like yeast...”

1. Jesus named himself as the farmer who carefully protected the seedlings from being pulled up with the weeds. In this, we see the good, forgiving, patient God who is always ready to grant another chance. How do you model the farmer to the people in your life?

2. Jesus likens the kingdom of God to a mustard seed and yeast, both of which start out very small, grow wildly, and eventually make an impact on their environment. This is very similar to our own growth. In what ways are you yeast to your family, friends, the kingdom of God?

Good News!

Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time (A)
Wisdom 12:13, 16-19 / Romans 8:26-27 /
Matthew 13:24-43 or 13:24-30

FR. JOSEPH JUKNIALIS

We humans are a curious lot, a mixture of wheat and weeds, sin and grace, tolerance and intolerance. Uproot one and you might uproot the other as well. The one who is guarded and may seem superficial may also be the one who is fun to be with and makes us laugh. The one who is terribly impractical may also be the creative dreamer. The penny-pincher who finds it difficult to spend and enjoy life may also be the one who calms our own spending and encourages us to save.

The kingdom of heaven, says the parable, is about God, who allows the wheat and weeds to grow together; God, who recognizes in each of us both good and evil and seems able to love us that way. Some find it difficult to tolerate those who are still growing in the faith.

Over the years there have been different litmus tests to determine the truly faithful ones—usury and the lending of money for interest, being part of the military, nuclear arms use, the prohibition and use of alcohol, birth control, divorce. Consider the Inquisition, when heretics were burned at the stake. Being a believer does not mean any of us perfectly lives out the ideal.

God seems more tolerant of us than we are of one another. We vessels who hold the treasure of faith grow at our own pace, each quite differently. It is God who does the ultimate sorting, willing to gather the wheat from our personal gardens and leave the weeds behind. ●

HIS WORDS.
YOUR JOURNEY.
TOGETHER.

On World Environment Day – June 5, 2023 – Pope Francis called on people “to move away from the throwaway culture toward ways of living marked by a culture of respect and care; care of creation and care of our neighbors, whether they be near or far from us either geographically or through time. Pope Francis has noted how science increasingly demonstrates that actions taken today will have an effect on the environment for thousands of years. This has also increased our sense of responsibility to God, who entrusted us with the care of creation, to our neighbors and to future generations.”

What can we all be doing do to ensure the planet's livability for future generations?

If you would like to share your personal response with the parish in a future bulletin, please fill out the section below and drop it in the box in front of the main office. All submissions will remain anonymous. You can also email goodshepherdstaf@aol.com with your response.

What can we all be doing do to ensure the planet's livability for future generations?

May 21 and May 28 column Response from parishioner -

Pope Francis was referring to political and social equality for women in nations. Do you believe that women have the right to decide what happens to their own bodies?

~All of mankind was born with the precious gift of FREE WILL.

As a woman I truly believe that I should be able to exercise this God given gift to make my own decision as to what happens to my body and with my life.

If the underlying question here is about abortion, I neither approve nor disapprove. This is a decision I alone should make for myself.

I understand that I will be accountable to God (and Only to God) for this, and all my choices be they good or bad.

We also make lap blankets for the Veterans and local nursing homes.

We will provide you with supplies for these items, and will teach you if you would like to learn. We also welcome you to work on your own projects. If crocheting or knitting is not your thing, just come and socialize with us; we would love to have the chance to meet you.
