FATHER KEN'S CORNER

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the Parish of the Good Shepherd,

How truthful are we with one another, but primarily how truthful are we with ourselves? Do we see the goodness and even holiness within us? Do we admit our faults, weaknesses, and what may be sinful? Is what other people see in us real or just a façade? I suppose we've all heard and seen movies when someone is on the witness stand, their hand is placed on the bible and they're asked to swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God.

The following is a true story – very simple- yet very revealing. It can be an opening in looking at ourselves with open eyes, with new eyes to see both the wonder and the promise of who we really are. Do we see the truth of who we are, or do we see only partially the reality of our being?

There was a story in the Dallas Morning News telling a story about a man named Frank Szymanski. Mr. Szymanski was somewhat of a notable personality having once played the position of 'center' for the Notre Dame football team in the 1940's. As the news article related, Szymanski was called as a witness to give testimony in a civil suit there in South Bend.

As the proceedings began, the formal questions were put to the witness. Please state your name, occupation and place of residence. Mr. Szymanski answered with the information. The judge, unsurprisingly however, a Notre Dame fan, was familiar with the teams and asked whether Mr. Szymanski had played for the football powerhouse.

"Yes, your honor", came the reply.

"And what position did you play?", asked the judge.

"I played center, your honor", came the forthright reply.

"Ah, yes, indeed. I do vaguely recall you playing center a number of years ago", said the judge.

"Were you a good center?"

Mr. Szymanski squirmed in his chair at the witness stand for a moment, then looked the judge square in the eye and said in a firm voice, "Your honor, I can tell you that I was indeed the best !#&@% center Notre Dame ever had!"

Now it happened that Frank Leahy, one of men who coached Szymanski in his college days was in the courtroom. Leahy was a little surprised at the statement he'd just heard because he had always known Szymanski to be very modest and very unassuming. At the end of the session, Leahy approached his former student and took him to the side. In a loud whisper he asked why Szymanski had made such a statement because in his career, he had coached a number of very good footballers who had played center. Without the slightest blush, Szymanski bent closer to his former coach and said without missing a beat, "Well coach, there was nothing else that I could say. As you know, after all I WAS UNDER OATH to tell the truth".

It is important to see ourselves under the light of truth. Sometimes we can fool ourselves into being worse than we really are; sometimes we can fool ourselves into being better than we really are. Either view doesn't paint an accurate picture. It is for this reason that we should particularly embrace Psalm 139.

"Oh God, you examine me and you know me, you know if I am standing or sitting and you read my thoughts from far away, whether I walk or lie down, you are watching, you know every detail of my conduct. The word is not even on my tongue before you know all about it."

God know the exact truth about us – even more than we know ourselves. Our God knows us BOTH as servants and beloved children; knows us BOTH as people who do evil and who do good. God knows our every sin and virtue and through it all sees us for who we are. Though we may hide both sides of ourselves from others, God sees us as we really are – AND LOVES US ANYWAY.

Matthew 22:15-21

FR. JOSEPH JUKNIALIS

It was a gathering of longtime friends. The conversation drifted from the shore of one topic to another like leaves bouncing down a river. Eventually the talk bumped up against politics. Because we tended to think alike, it turned to smashing and bashing the opposition—all until someone asked, “Can you name the wisdom in the others?” “There isn’t any,” came someone’s swift reply. “But surely there is,” the questioner persisted. “No one has all the wisdom, and everyone has some of the wisdom.” What followed was dumbfounded silence. Truth can do that.

We live in a time when the wisdom on the street, over our backyard fence, and at the coffee pot at work all tend to skew “You’re only OK if you think the way I do.” It’s a hard-core bias that surrounds not only politics but also raising children, what constitutes a clean house, and the best way to boil spaghetti. Nothing remains untouched.

When Jesus was challenged about whether or not to pay taxes to Caesar, his response was, “Repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God” (Matthew 22:21b). In other words, it’s OK to pay taxes to Caesar because even Caesar belongs to God. Everything and everyone does. God’s wisdom finds a home everywhere.

Having faith is a bit like wearing night goggles. We begin to see what no one else sees, even though it may be a bit blurry, and what we see is the hand of God at work everywhere, even in the opposition. ●

Blessing of the Animals October 7th, 2023

O Lord, make me an instrument of your PEACE.
Where there is hatred, let me sow LOVE;
Where there is injury, PARDON;
Where there is doubt, FAITH;
Where there is despair; HOPE;
Where there is darkness, LIGHT and
Where there is sadness, JOY.
O Divine Master, grant that I may not seek so much to be consoled AS TO CONSOLE;
To be understood AS TO UNDERSTAND;
To be loved AS TO LOVE;
For it is in giving that we receive.
It is in pardoning that we are pardoned.
And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

As you read this it will be just over a week since the events in southern Israel and Gaza began. Hamas has perpetrated a terrible evil which we've all seen and those who committed these barbaric acts and those who planned them must be brought to account. Hatred begetting terror and all kinds of unspeakable atrocities. Hatred begetting unfathomable sorrow. Violence begetting unbelievable violence in return. An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth is a way of life that has no place in our world today, yet not only exists, but is in full bloom. Tears have formed a river of sorrow and the light of compassion has been obscured and hidden from the smoke of uncountable explosions. These days the seeds of Antisemitism and prejudice against any Muslim have found fertile soil to bear a bitter harvest of 30 and 60 and 100 fold – not the harvest of justice of which Jesus spoke. Our hearts go out to all the innocent who will suffer, die for no reason and for their families.

Many people have forgotten that in the year 1219, St. Francis of Assisi engaged Sultan Malik al-Kamil in peaceful dialogue even as Crusader and Muslim soldiers fought at Damietta, Egypt. Francis sought out the Sultan even though the Sultan decreed that anyone who brought him the head of a Christian should be rewarded with a gold piece. Unfortunately, even though both men came to share a mutual respect for each other, the violence did not end then and hasn't now.

It must be our heartfelt prayer that God will raise up some person of any faith, Jewish, Muslim, Christian, who can meet with the parties at least temporarily to end the violence and killing and then to find a just solution for all the ills in that region of our world. I ask you to join me in your personal prayers, invoking the intercession of Our Blessed Mother, first that a cease-fire be established, and second, that some tiny seed of order be restored from the chaos and all the hostages Jews and non-Jews alike be released.

I am not naïve. I know that even as I pray for a miracle as I write, that there will be further missile launches and air strikes which will take the lives of those guilty of such hideous acts, but actions in this war will take many, many more lives of the innocent. Yet prayer is powerful; a community, a country, a world united in prayer, united in hope can bring about something totally unexpected. Again, I ask that you and I continue to raise our prayers to the God, the Father of all peoples so that broken hearts will be healed and that this healing brings justice and peace. O God, have mercy on your stupid children.

Pro-life answers to pro-choice questions

1. Abortion is only an operation. The fetus is not a human life so why not operate?

The fertilized egg is a human life. Each of a woman's body parts contains her personal genetic code; the growing embryo/fetus has a unique genetic code of his or her own. He or she may not look like a grown human being as he or she is still developing but all of us began in the same manner.

2. We have no right to impose our morality on others.

We have laws that forbid against stealing, rape, murder, etc. All laws impose morality; it is necessary that they are in place to protect people. However, some laws are immoral laws – such as those that used to uphold slavery. Our society should protect its tiniest citizens. Hopefully our society will equally recognize the rights of unborn children under the human rights clause in the US Constitution.

3. I am personally against abortion, but I believe it should be a woman's personal choice to have an abortion or not.

The reason that someone would be opposed to abortion is because they acknowledge that it kills babies, hurts women and men and negatively affects society at large. What if someone said that they personally wouldn't kill the kid who sits next to them in class but it would be alright for someone else to kill them? The result of the choice to have an abortion is a dead baby, a wounded mother and father and a hurting society. Often times a woman is coerced into having an abortion by the child's father or her parents. It is not a free choice for her. Also, if the baby's father does not want her to have an abortion he has no right or choice to prevent the abortion of his child.

4. A woman has a right to do what she wants with her own body.

There are laws against drugs and ones that require people to wear seatbelts or bike helmets because people will do things that harm their own bodies. Abortion does not involve just one body but two. Being inside something is not the same as being a part of something. Approximately half of abortions violently kill unborn females, and these female babies don't have a say over their bodies.

5. Better for the child to be dead than unwanted.

There are many people who were adopted because their birth parents decided it would be best for their child. Thousands of people are waiting to adopt children into their homes. The average wait to adopt a child is 2-10 years. There are people who were created through rape or incest. We all know someone who came from difficult beginnings – what if someone had decided to not give him or her the chance to live? Additionally, child abuse has not decreased since legalized abortion. Abortion has not improved the lives of children and families.

6. Those who promote abortion as the primary option have the best interest of the woman in mind.

Abortion is a violent, unnatural procedure and according to women who have had abortions is very painful and humiliating. There are numerous physical health risks to women, including a greater risk of breast cancer. Post-abortion stress disorder affects millions of women and men. Clinical treatment and healing from a past abortion is a long process for many. Additionally, the abortion industry is a huge business earning billions of dollars each year for performing abortions.

7. Abortion can't be a big problem, I don't know anyone who's had one.

About 1.2 million abortions are performed each year in America; one in four women between the ages of 15 and 45 has had an abortion. About 1/3 of our generation were killed by abortion. You'd be totally surprised if you knew how many people you interact with on a daily basis have been wounded by the abortion experience.

8. Abortions are performed before the blobs of tissue grow into babies

Abortions are legal throughout all nine months of the pregnancy. All surgical abortions are performed after the baby has a beating heart, which is at 18 days. At week 6, still before when most abortions are performed, the baby has brain waves that are detectable. Unborn children feel pain for certain by the 13th week, and perhaps even as early as the 8th week. An abortion would be excruciatingly painful to the unborn child. Advancements in technology since the legalization of abortion in 1973 scientifically prove the unborn child is not a blob of tissue, but a living, growing, unique person.

9. The baby may be born mentally disabled or handicapped – and what kind of life would that be anyway?

The use of this argument would imply that handicapped or mentally disabled people have no value. This expresses ignorance and extreme prejudice against a minority and believes that we can eliminate those who don't meet some kind of cultural standard. We are all handicapped in different ways; some are just not as obvious as others. Plus many people feel called to adopt special needs children.

10. If abortion becomes illegal, unsafe, back-alley abortions will occur and just hurt the mother. Women are going to have abortions anyway so at least make them safe and legal.

"Safe" and legal abortions cause serious physical damage to the woman, emotional pain to women and men and cause a violent death to an unborn child. We don't want "coat hanger," abortions either. The solution is not legalizing "safe," murder, but assisting people to opt for the life-giving alternatives of parenting or adoption by helping them meet their personal material and psychological needs.
